Notice of Force Majeure Event – Acetic acid shortage due to Typhoon Bavi

Dear Valued Customer,

We wish to inform you that the availability of acetic acid, a key raw material used to manufacture several of our products, has been severely impacted due to delays in multiple inbound shipments resulting from Typhoon Bavi and the consequent disruption to shipping, port operations and related logistics. These unforeseen circumstances, which are beyond the Company's reasonable control, have resulted in a significant shortage of acetic acid, materially affecting our manufacturing operations and our ability to maintain normal production and supply schedules.

As a result, production of Ethyl Acetate (ETAC), Acetic Anhydride (AAH), n-Propyl Acetate (NPAC) and n-Butyl Acetate (BUTAC) has been significantly impacted causing shutdown of most of our production lines until further acetic acid shipments are received and normal operations can be restored.

Accordingly, this communication serves as notice of a Force Majeure event and reserves all rights and remedies available to the Company under the applicable contract(s), including the relevant Force Majeure provisions, to the extent applicable. Consequently, supplies may be delayed, curtailed or rescheduled during the affected period.

The Company is taking all reasonable measures to mitigate the impact of this disruption and restore normal operations at the earliest. We will continue to keep you informed as the situation evolves, and our teams will remain in touch regarding order prioritization and revised delivery schedules.

We regret the inconvenience caused and appreciate your understanding and continued cooperation.
